The Law Enforcement Foundation (LEF) would like to thank our supporters who made 2012 another great year for our organization. The LEF experienced significant growth in program participation in 2012. Increased enrollment is the result of a variety of factors, including an increase in LEF program offerings and the continued need for executive-level training for law enforcement officers,

In 2012, participation in the Law Enforcement Foundation's Police Executive Leadership & Management Training Series—the Supervisor Training and Education Program (STEP), the Police Executive Leadership College (PELC), and the Certified Law Enforcement Executive (CLEE) program—resulted in the highest number of LEF program participants to date.

Between 2011 and 2012, the LEF saw a 206 percent increase in program participants overall, training a total of 489 people in the aforementioned programs, Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) Officer Training (DOT) and the Child Abduction Response Team (CART) training program.

With your support, the LEF was able to train the following number of Ohio officers:

- 34 officers in STEP
- 57 officers in PELC

- 27 officers in CLEE
- 20 officers in DOT

Additionally, 238 officers participated in D.A.R.E. supplemental training. The LEF also trained an additional 48 officers and 65 non-officer response team members from entities, such as hospitals, volunteer search and rescue groups, and victims' advocate groups in the CART program,

This expansion was made possible by continued support from our valued donors. Increase program offerings and program participation significantly extended the LEF's reach into Ohio communities, which will result in stronger, safer communities for generations to come.

The LEF is the only entity in Ohio to offer a three-tiered, gold standard training through the Police Executive Leadership & Management Training Series and is the sole provider of DOT and CART in the state of Ohio. These invaluable training programs are made possible by foundation grants, corporate sponsorships and gifts, and from generous donors, like you. The LEF is thankful for the new board members' commitment to the LEF mission.

LEF Sponsor Spotlight

LeadsOnline

The LEF offers unique partnership opportunities for corporate sponsors, which result in substantial marketing and branding exposure for businesses that share a common goal of creating safer communities throughout Ohio.

LeadsOnline was an LEF corporate sponsor for LEF programs in 2012.

LeadsOnline is an online investigation system for law enforcement professionals. In addition to helping law enforcement agencies solve crimes, the LeadsOnline system also aids the business community by significantly increasing the efficiency of the reporting process for businesses that are required to do so, such as pharmacies and gold buyers

In 2013 and the coming years, the LEF hopes to partner with more organizations in this capacity.

promote overall responsible decision making for students throughout Central Ohio.

The KeyBank Foundation has also been a long-time champion of LEF programs and has made significant financial contributions to the organization since 1992.

Ms. Harbrecht served as chair of the LEF Board from 2008-2010. She has consistently supported the LEF through personal contributions, as well as through financial support from her company, Paul Werth Associates, Inc.

We thank each of the 2012 LEF Friends of the Foundation for their generous support of our programs over the years. Your support has increased community awareness of LEF programs and enabled us to continue to provide these invaluable programs.

D.A.R.E. Crosses Cultural Boundaries

D.A.R.E.'s Anti-Substance Abuse Message is Delivered to a Russian-Speaking Student

The start of the new school year meant Drug Awareness Resistance education (D.A.R.E.) Officer Scott Hendricks, Sylvania PD, would be starting a new D.A.R.E. elementary school course for students at Sylvania Elementary School, but there was one small problem. One of his students, Tanya Reese, recently moved to the community from Russia and did not speak English. Realizing the importance of the D.A.R.E. program, Officer Hendricks quickly went to work to locate D.A.R.E. course materials for the student.

D.A.R.E. International Deputy Director Mike Kuhlman informed Officer Hendricks that a D.A.R.E. event had been held in Astana, Kazakhstan, in June 2012. A Russian D.A.R.E. Planner and Workbook were promptly sent to the student, and she was able to participate in invaluable anti-substance abuse lessons with her new classmates.

In addition to crossing cultural boundaries, participation in the D.A.R.E. Officer Training program increased in 2012. Twenty new D.A.R.E. officers were certified in the 64th DOT class, 238 completed training in the new elementary curriculum, Keepin' it REAL, and 47 officers completed School Resource Officer Basic Training.

Congratulations to PELC 61 and 62 Graduates

The Police Executive Leadership College (PELC) is an intensive course for law enforcement executives that is based on the premise that leadership skills can be learned and that given the opportunity for feedback and practice, executives can substantially improve their abilities to lead. A total of 57 officers completed the PELC program in 2012 from graduating classes 61 and 62.

Through this essential training, officers learn how to practically apply leadership concepts to improve their performance and the operation of their departments.

Over the years, PELC has increased in popularity as the need for continuing education and management training for mid-level supervisors in law enforcement agencies grows.

Registration for PELC classes 63 and 64, which will be held in the spring and fall of 2013, has already exceeded that of past years, with a total of 64 participants, to date.

STEP in Action

A STEP Student Applies Knowledge Gained to a Critical Incident in the Field

In late October 2012, armed men entered a Cambridge, Ohio, home in an attempt to rob the residence. After police were called, the situation quickly escalated to a hostage situation.

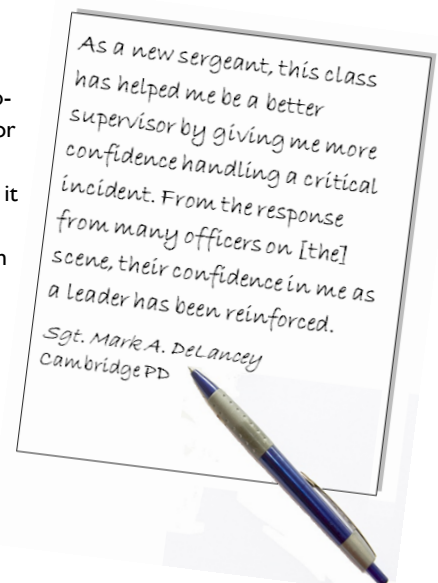

Recent Supervisor Training and Education Program (STEP) graduate Sgt. Mark DeLancey, Cambridge PD, was a student in the STEP IX class when the incident occurred. Although he had not yet completed the course, Sgt. DeLancey was able to apply the knowledge he had gained in the course in the field.

Sgt. DeLancey activated the SWAT team and requested mutual aid from the Cambridge Sheriffs Office, Emergency Medical Services, and the Cambridge Fire Department, and set up a command post at a local elementary school. The incident ended with no injuries and the arrest of the robbers who were also suspects in robberies throughout the area. Sgt. DeLancey directed approximately 40 law enforcement officers during the 8-hour ordeal.

"There is no way I can express my gratitude to the STEP program and Cpt. Gregory for putting on this class," Sgt. DeLancey said. "Without it I do not believe I would have handled the situation as well as I did."

Upon completion of STEP, Sgt. DeLancey and 33 other officers completed a total of 15 learning modules including ethics, line-of-duty shootings, mentoring subordinates, and vehicle and foot pursuits.

CLEE Participation Reaches Record Numbers

The LEF's Certified Law Enforcement Executive (CLEE) program teaches officers to extend their professional network to access information, manage internal and external change, and maximize resources, which are often limited in today's economic climate.

In February 2012, 27 officers graduated from CLEE XVI. Three officers from the CLEE XVI class—Sgt. Dale Morris, CLEE, Springdale PD; Sgt. David Steinbrunner, CLEE, Vandalia PD; and Sgt. Brian Uhl, CLEE, Springfield Twp. PD—have completed the entire Police Executive Leadership &

Management Training Series (STEP, PELC, and CLEE). Sgt. Uhl, was also selected as the second recipient of the Chief Kallai Outstanding CLEE Graduate Awarded for being a top-quality student, as well as his performance as a police officer.

Dr. Stephen Douglas, instructor for CLEE's Interpersonal Skills Modules for 17 years, received the first honorary CLEE certification upon his retirement in 2012.

Twenty-nine officers will graduate from the current CLEE XVII class in February 2013, which is the largest

CLEE class to date.

The CLEE program has a profound impact on officers' professional development as well as the law enforcement agencies and communities they serve. To date, out of 271 CLEE graduates, 195 were not chiefs and were eligible for promotion. Of this 195, 92 have been promoted since graduating from the CLEE program.

The LEF congratulates both the CLEE XVI and XVII classes for their accomplishments and wishes them continued success in their professional endeavors.

CART Gets a Makeover

Program revisions lead to increased collaboration throughout Ohio communities.

The problem of abducted and missing children, as well as missing vulnerable adults, such as those with Alzheimer's or dementia, continues to affect communities throughout Ohio. The Child Abduction Response Team (CART) training program was recently revamped to help prepare law enforcement officers, as well as key community members, to respond in the case of such event.

Ohio CART was established in 2006 to provide specialized search and rescue training. The CART program was redesigned early in 2012 with an emphasis on building relationships with non-law enforcement organizations and community members. Target groups include hospitals, victim's advocates, local volunteer search and rescue groups, and representatives from the prosecutors' offices. This expansion strengthens the local network, increasing the likelihood of reuniting missing individuals with their families.

Three multi-day CART training sessions were held in 2012, which included hands-on training and team policy development.

CART training attendees participate in a mock search.

The Law Enforcement Foundation, 2013 and Beyond

Due to an amplified need in professional development and management training in Ohio, the LEF confidently projects that the increased program enrollment of 2012 will continue in 2013, and beyond. Current registration for LEF programs is as follows:

- STEP: 8 officers from 6 counties
 - PELC: 63 officers from 22 counties
 - CLEE: 28 from 12 counties
- In 2013 and beyond, the LEF plans to continue to strengthen Ohio communities through increased training opportunities.

Since 1985, the LEF has worked to execute its mission of providing education and training programs that enhance the quality of life and protect the values of citizenship through working partnerships with businesses and other community organizations. Throughout the years, the LEF has established relationships throughout Ohio communities that has enabled our organization to continue to provide this invaluable training that results in thriving communities.

The LEF is grateful for these relationships and donor support. We look forward to continuing these invaluable relationships, and hope to partner with you again in 2013.
